

Me.Inc

Get Ready to be the Boss!

This powerful event is a way to get people to create a personalized framework for maximizing their true potential. Me.Inc is fun and engaging! Participants are guided through a process that establishes a solid foundation for their life by creating their own vision & purpose statements, and identifying their core values.

We focus on life's greatest aspirations and use the metaphor of climbing to a summit. Me.Inc. clearly outlines the process of understanding necessary preparations and the value in setting major milestones that are required. In a very simplistic way, Me.Inc. walks participants through the application of The Core10 to the goals they have established.

Participants leave with a clear roadmap that they can refer to regularly. Successfully managing Me.Inc. is about setting goals that are in line with one's vision, purpose, and core values.

Designed specifically as a program for adolescents and young adults, Me.Inc. helps set a course for success and significance in life. Me.Inc. is a program that in a very short period of time can bring out powerful clarity for participants related to what they aspire to become and establishes a clear plan to make their dreams a reality.

In school settings Me.Inc. is ideally delivered to groups of 40-60 students. It can, however, be delivered to groups of any size. The program is designed as a personal development workshop that can benefit people at any stage of life that are interested in setting and reaching goals and aspire to a higher level of success in life.

There are two options for this program:

- A) Two hour format for small groups
- B) Full day format for large groups wanting to focus on both personal development and setting group goals.

For more information, call Jed Cowan 801-920-3937